The graduating class of 1983 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. and Mrs. Gorski. Mr. Gorski has been at Queen Anne School for fourteen years and Mrs. Gorski for twelve years. In this span of time they have been largely responsible for many improvements at Queen Anne. For example, Mrs. Gorski was instrumental in acquiring a full-time guidance counselor. Mr. Gorski headed a committee which remodeled our science building, Chelsea Hall, this year.

Aside from being the chairmen of the science and English departments, they have been involved in other facets of school life. Mr. Gorski has coached girls' softball and boys' junior varsity soccer. He also established a photography club and the annual Science Fair. Mrs. Gorski is the chairman of the Sunshine Committee, a group of energetic staff and faculty members who organize activities and spread cheer. Mrs. Gorski is also Queen Anne's reading resource coordinator and our representative to AIMS (the Association of Independent Maryland Schools). She is currently acting as secretary for the Queen Anne chapter of the Cum Laude Society. Beyond these numerous contributions, the Gorski's possess other qualities which make them special at Queen Anne. It is apparent that they both are dedicated and talented teachers.

The senior class of 1983 wishes to express their gratitude for Mr. and Mrs. Gorski's sincere concern for each one of their students over their years at Queen Anne. It is this quality that is so deserving of our admiration and thanks.

Oh I love the changing seasons

Green and growing all around Smiling faces, laughing children
Making such a joyful sound
In my dreams I see tomorrow
Time and children of my own Someone who will stand
beside me
Helping me to make ourselves a home
If your eyes can see tomorrow
Though it might be far away
If you have some dreams to build on
May we help you today
John Denver

AUTUMN

Tree
I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree
A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair
Upon whose bosom snow has lain
Who intimately lives with rain Poets are made by fools like me,
but only God can make a tree
Sergeant Joyce Kilmer

Q.A. Generates Service

There are members of Queen Anne School who have reached beyond the realm of Queen Anne walls. These students and faculty are involved in community services and activities in this state as well as in many others. They give of themselves their time, effort, and money, but mostly companionship and genuine concern. In return, they obtain a special satisfaction in knowing that someone lives with greater ease as a result of their efforts.

One group of enthusiastic students are those involved in the St. Barnabus Church youth program. This established community was founded and is now being administered by Father Larry Harris and Mrs. Sue Harris. This is with the help of the newly elected officers, like Ms. Margaret Egolf (vice-president).

These students take two major trips each summer. On July 30, they plan to return to Augusta, Maine, where they act as counselors for mentally and physically handicapped children at the KVCRC. This organization is sponsored by various facilities. The students, however, live rather primitively there. Since showers are not circulable, they must bathe in the nearby lake. Also, their meals are a separate expense. This experience allows them to see Maine and enjoy the local life such as the seafood festival, sailing, and mountain climbing. They also travel to Northfork, West Virginia, where they serve as plumbers, painters, and carpenters for elderly, disabled, and poverty stricken citizens. The sponsoring agency is the Highland Educational Project who also runs a nutrition program for these people.

Several smaller activities are planned strictly for fun. These include a canoe trip down the Patuxent River, an overnight camping trip at Patuxent Park and a bike trip to Mt. Vernon in November. They also sponsor a halloween party for children.

The group, a branch of the St. Barnabus Church, is supported by the church in regard to publicity. However, the funds are raised largely by the students themselves. Though the group is mostly composed of members of the church, it is open for those who are interested but do not necessarily belong to an Episcopal church. They all have similar beliefs and common goals. The youth group gives youths the opportunity to share the rewarding experience of helping others. Moreover, they learn the ideals of loving, caring, and giving to one another.

Another group of students visits Manor Care Nursing Home, located on Route 202 in Largo, Maryland. These forty students are organized by seniors, Carol Leonnig and Lee Pollack. The participants spend their free time with residents on a one-to-one basis and help in the special activities of the Nursing Home. They serve as skillful friends to those living there. Their efforts are greatly appreciated.

Mr. Bill Himelright is a new active faculty member at Queen Anne this year. He is also the Christian Education Consultant for Prince George's Cluster of Episcopal Churches. He is responsible for developing training programs for youth leaders, organizing youth groups and counseling adults and students involved in Episcopal church work. He is certainly an asset to the Queen Anne community.

Spirit Day

Spirit/Fad/Nostalgia Day (Whew!) was a great success this year. In a single frenzied day, students competed to eat donuts, decorate halls, carve ice cream and were judged on their nostalgic and faddish and sometimes outlandish costumes. The winners were Robert Cartwright (8th) and Tom MacCallum (11th) for donut eating; John Wimpe (8th) and Mike Cardaci (10th) for ice cream carving; and the tenth grade for the Hall decorating contest with their theme, "Rock with the Lions." The costume contest revealed creativity and imagination. Some of the lucky winners were a punk rocker and a preppy. The upper school triumphed with a 50's greaser

Blue/Gold Field Day

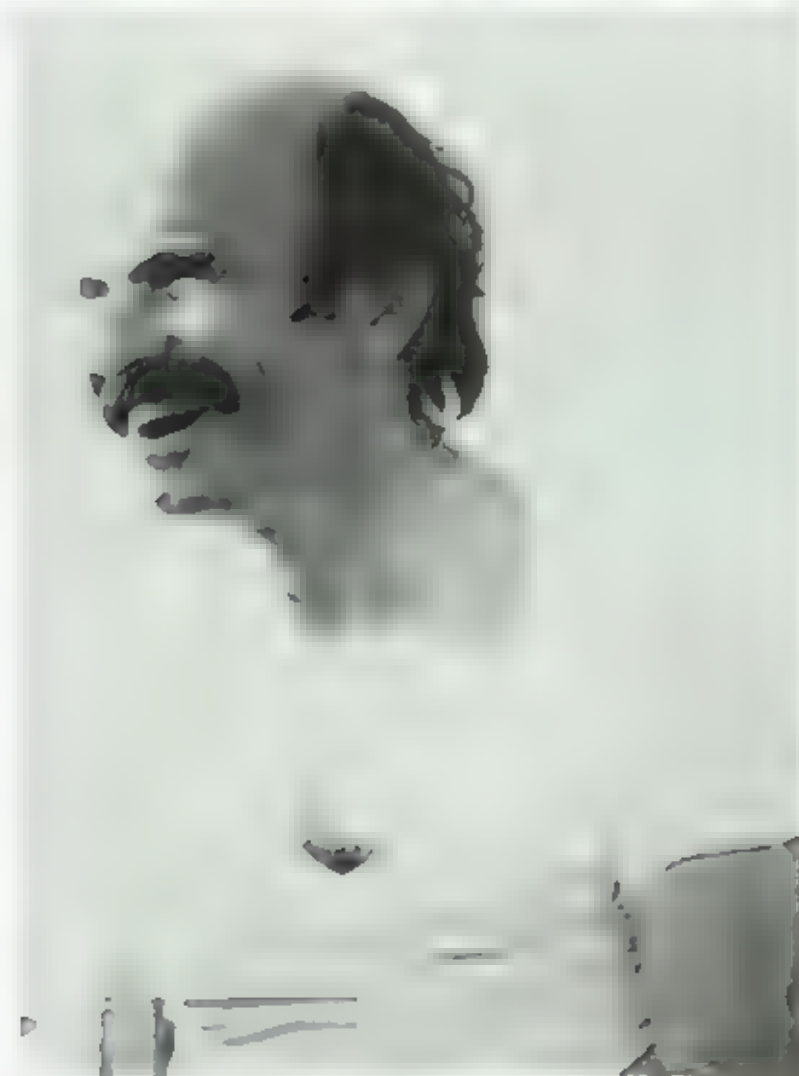

On Friday, October 29 the school divided and it was Blue against Gold. The teams competed in various events such as the egg toss, water balloon pass and greased pole climb. Both Blue and Gold played well but Gold came out the victor with the score 190-125.

Queen Anne Lions Defeat Falcons

The Homecoming Soccer Game was an intense match for Queen Anne. The team defeated Flint Hill and tied for first place in the league. This exciting victory of Q.A. over Flint Hill completed the perfect day of fun and games.

Lectures of Autumn

Starting off this year's Great Lecture Series were three diverse and interesting speakers: Commander Walker, an astronaut in training; Gordon Hall, an expert on political extremist groups; and Milton Dixon, an actor-director representing his So. Carolina Theater Group

New insights were gained from each of these speakers. They provided Q.A. students with new perspectives with which they could view their respective fields. Commander Walker gave us a new look at N.A.S.A. and space travel.

Gordon Hall taught a new view of politics; and Milton Dixon presented alternative interpretations of Shakespeare. All proved valuable expansions to our knowledge.

Curriculum Changes

The faculty at Queen Anne added several new classes to the old and improved our school society with their dedication and long hours. Electives Increased, for example, Russian History. Senior sections were broadened with the introduction of Advanced Placement English Courses even stretched across departments with the addition of the inter-disciplinary Humanities course. Overall, our faculty has created an excellent, college-preparatory environment

This year the Lions had a very young team yet a fantastic season. It's record of 16-3-1 is the best ever held by a Queen Anne soccer team. A major asset was senior capt. all-tournament M.V.P. Robbie Fettus. He scored 42 goals in the season making him the highest scorer in the league. This years defense consisting of Todd Rodenquez, Roy Edelshein, Tom MacCallum, Mike Cardack, and goalie Geoff Fettus, contributed to their fabulous season and nine shut-outs. The P.V.A.C. tournament was held by the Lions and they dominated the field winning it 3-2 against St Andrews. Another major asset that was lost was senior capt. John Hohensee who was put on injured reserve mid-way through the season with a broken ankle. The final attributing factor to the practically flawless season was the brilliant coaching of Stu Brynn.

The team practices to fight

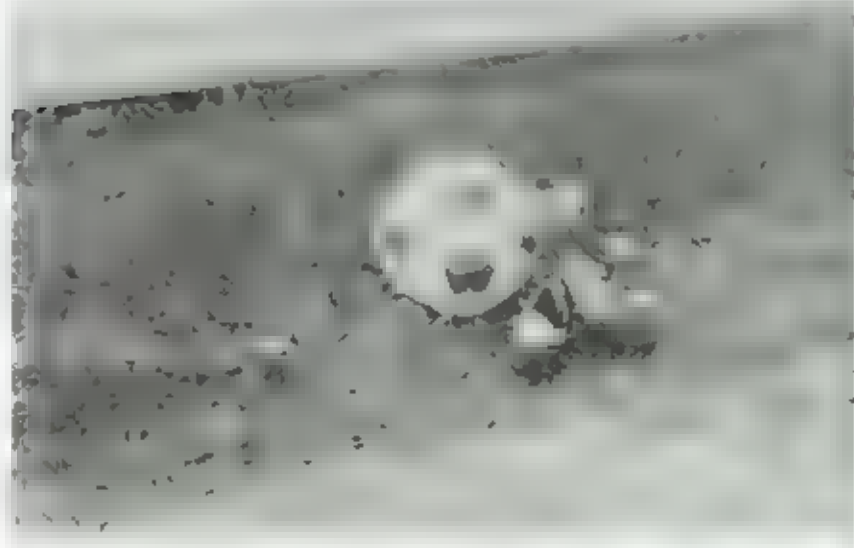

Despite a less than triumphant field record, this year's season was a winning experience. Everyone learned something, whether it was about perseverance, excavating, brownies, or clothing personification. The trend this year was one of marked improvement. What began as a melee of personalities with different interests was soon transformed into a team with a goal in mind. Remarked one hockey player of contemporary conditions on the team, "our skirts were real cute, they were plaid." Under the direction of coach and friend Lynn Krahling, the hockey team grew through both trying and rewarding experiences.

JVSOCCER JVSOCCER

The curtain rises on a field of wildly cheering spectators. Amid the crowd of devoted fans, the unquestionably victorious blue and gold team descends from their pedestal — the field. The day ... sometime in the future, the place ... Queen Anne's soccer field, the score ... 40 to 0, Queen Anne ... Well — this someday isn't today, but under the coaching of Mr. Gorski, we're hoping for next year.

Although this year's junior varsity soccer was not completely victorious, they showed signs of improvement. They'll be all-stars yet!

CROSSCOUNTRYCRO

This year was the premier of a new varsity sport at Queen Anne. Coached by Steve Brynn, the fledgling Cross country team stretched its newfound wings. Although the team only won two of its meets this year, the cross country team is off to a running start. The team was very young and had only one experienced runner, Trent Toler. We look forward to seeing the Q.A. cross country team extend its horizons in the years to come.

A Country Christmas

The evening of December 4th brought several branches of the Fine Arts department together in Arnold Hall for an evening of music and dramatics. The evening started with the chorus singing several holiday carols in English and French. The band then added to the Christmas cheer with many familiar instrumental renditions. The finale was the production of Kenneth Grahame's The Wind in the Willows which was directed by Bob Weller. The evening proved to be a genuine "Country Christmas."

Christmas: Tis the Season . . .

Something about Christmas arouses in all of us a common spirit which prevails over everything at Q.A. during the last few weeks of December. This year this spirit was enhanced by students exchanging gifts with their secret Kris Kringle friends. Parties were given for each class, among them the traditional senior breakfast. On the last morning of classes, December 17th, before we went our separate ways for the holiday, the school united in Arnold Hall for the exchange of that "Christmas Spirit." The Christmas tree was decorated and carols were sung. 'Twas the time for the whole Queen Anne family to feel the special unity of our school and share their love.

Left to right from top: Mike Cardac puts the finishing touches on the tree as Tracey Dowden, Sharon Beall, Loretta Bland, Susan Rollman and Susan Quarters celebrate friendship. Rama Ramakrishna and alumna Eugenia Pitrof sample the party wares. Andria Warner, Nicole Thome, Marcy Chrisner and Wendy Alcock share jokes as well as holiday fare. Susan Harris, Tina Plummer, Jill Doherty, and Misty March enjoy conversation.

Celebrate: Imagination!

A unique theatre workshop was set up this year by Bob Weller in cooperation with the well-known children's theatre director from London, Gerald Chapman. Gerald Chapman worked with the select group of actors on their techniques. He taught them various ways to improve their acting ability, especially in the area of improvisation. The actors at the end of twelve hours of hard work, put on a marvelous play that really had no set script.

Guest Speaker: Columnist Jack Anderson

The Distinguished Speaker Series sponsored by the Vestry of Saint Barnabas Church and presented by Queen Anne School continued this winter with the appearance of probably the most widely known and most controversial columnist in the world. Mr. Anderson won the Pulitzer Prize for national journalism in 1972. Mr. Anderson produces a daily column that appears in thousands of newspapers, appears regularly on the ABC show "Good Morning America", and has his own show called "Jack Anderson Confidential". Mr. Anderson spoke in Arnold Hall on February 17, 1983.

The Donkey Basketball Game held on January 13, 1983, was a first for Queen Anne. The game was arranged by the activities committee under the instruction of Becky Brown, Tricia Cartwright, and Kammie Powers. The sponsoring agency was the Donkey Ball Company of Buckeye in Westerville, Ohio.

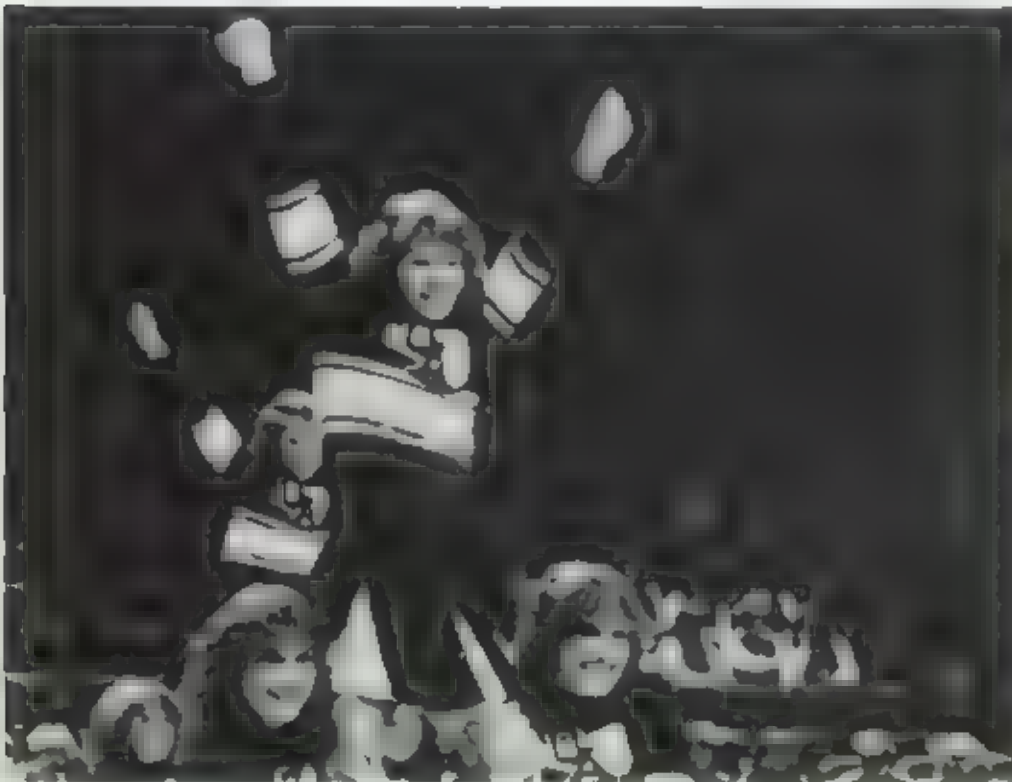

The teams for the game were students and alumni vs parents and faculty. The donkeys included "Elvis," "Rigormortis," and the infamous "Jaws." For attempting to ride the latter, Tom MacCallum was awarded a certificate for "Most Valuable Jackass." Despite heavy handed and footed playing, the student team was victorious, with John Hohensee as high scorer for the evening.

Half time entertainment included a musical performance by the hillbillies from the junior class and a trampoline routine created and performed by Diana Farnan, Karen West, and Ms. Lynn Krahling, our girls' athletic director. But the entertainment of the Donkey Ball Game will be remembered with laughter when the aches and pains are forgotten.

On January 22, 1983, the Varsity Cheerleaders competed in an invitational competition at the Capital Centre. The competition was sponsored by the Washington Bullets and was run by Dallas Spirit Leaders. This year's vastly improved varsity squad triumphed over the other 15 squads who competed and carried home the first place trophy. Considering the outcome of past year's competitions at the Capital Center this was quite an exciting long-awaited success. Second place was awarded to Fort Hunt and third place to Franklin, the only squad to outscore G.A. last year.

On Saturday, January 22, the Varsity boys entered the Capital Centre ready to take on St. Andrews. The team seemed to show their strengths as many new plays and strategies were used. They proved their superiority in basketball as they convincingly beat St. Andrews, 34 to 64. Their excellent playing was not only noted by the crowd, but also by Bullet, Kevin Grevey

Board of Overseers

The 1982-1983 Board of Overseers is comprised of members that are elected by the vestries of St. Barnabas Church, Holy Trinity Church, Trinity Church, and St. Thomas Church. They work on operating policies of the school including qualifications for entrance and the proposed budget for the next academic year, all with the approval of the vestry. The headmaster is nominated by the board and is elected by the vestry.

The purpose of the Queen Anne Parents' Club is to promote superior educational and developmental opportunities at the school. The club serves as a means of communication between the parents and the teachers, administration, and Board of Overseers. The 1983 Parents' Club was headed by President Bob Fulghum, Vice President Dorothy Leonnig, Treasurer Anne Ostrom, and Secretary Jane Powers

The 1983 Student Council, under the able direction of president, Chris LaPlaca, has initiated improvements for the student government. Most importantly, the Council has reached beyond the limits of the Queen Anne campus. For instance, fundraisers such as the sale of candy bars and tumblers brought in money to be accrued for the purpose of reestablishing Q.A. Movement Activities Clinic, wherein Queen Anne students and faculty could work with motor-impaired children from the community. In addition, the Council arranged for a Red Cross blood mobile to visit Queen Anne

The Council has also established a new committee known as the Social Awareness Committee chaired by senior Cynthia Cosimano. The committee sponsors a communication with our political representatives. Through the student council, this year's student body has been more influential in the school's development

Model United Nations

The Model United Nations, headed by Mr. Van Thournout, consists of students interested in the United Nations and its role in international politics and foreign relations. The group represented Uruguay this year and attended sessions at Harvard University in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland, and another in New York City. All of these sessions proved enlightening and useful in learning tactics such as debate and strategy as well as why the United Nations works as it does.

On December 6th and 7th the Queen Anne delegation of the Model Organization of American States attended a conference at the Pan American Building in Washington, D.C. They represented the South American country of Uruguay as did the Model United Nations contingent from our school. The eight Queen Anne students and O.A.S. faculty advisors, James Turk and Bill Himelright, came away from the session with a better understanding of international diplomacy and a feeling for the problems that face the countries in the Americas.

Junior Chorus

The Junior Chorus consists of a group of talented young seventh grade singers. Barbara Masters is the coordinator of this lively group that learns the basics of choral music. They perform at chapel services and sing in seasonal programs in conjunction with the other choruses. If they maintain their interest these students will be heard as the senior chorus in the future.

The Radio Club

The Radio Club is a welcome addition to the Queen Anne community this year. Russell Burroughs, the seventh and eighth grade science teacher, has his own amateur radio and wishes to share his knowledge with the students. The students are learning morse code, FCC regulations, and the basic do's and don't's about amateur radio. This Christmas, the radio club sent personal Christmas messages throughout the United States.

Mr. Burroughs aids Christine Foster

Senior Chorus

Barbara Masters, head of the Fine Arts department and director of choral music, spends many hours with the Senior Chorus, grades 9-12, to insure that they will develop into a fine group of singers which Queen Anne can be proud of in musical productions, both onstage and in chapel performances. This year, as in the past few years, the senior chorus has the opportunity to sing with the D.C. Youth Orchestra which is under the direction of Lyn McLain. The senior chorus enjoys putting on productions to display their talent for tuneful teamwork.

Intermediate Chorus

The Intermediate chorus is comprised of many "fine art" oriented eighth graders. This chorus works with Mrs. Barbara Masters on many musical endeavors such as the opera that is being produced in the spring, entitled "The Little Match Girl." This group is adding their voices to make many projects successful for the choral music program.

Queen Anne Bands

Beginning Band

Bl Shepherd, Robert Ekstrand, John Stokes, Kim Brown, Deepti Kharod, Yvonne Sinha, and Andrea Warner, Conductor

This year's band consisted of many diverse and talented students who combined to form a very good musical ensemble. The concert band performed at many formal and informal functions on campus and acted as our emissaries to many private and public elementary schools in our metropolitan area. Several sectionals, such as beginning band, a wind ensemble and a string sectional were started this year by Andrea Warner, the director of the bands. Between her and these students this year's bands proved to us that the arts are alive and well at Queen Anne.

Parrot Weed

Parrot Weed is the literary magazine becoming a Queen Anne tradition. The Parrot Weed is run by students under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Andrews. Students themselves edit and submit items for this magazine. Creative writing, in the form of poems and short stories, is the most popular submission, but artwork and photographs are also published. Erik Ledbetter is the editor of this publication which reaches the souls of creators and readers.

SPECTRUM magazine is produced by the Journalism staff at Queen Anne. It serves as our sole news publication by students. SPECTRUM produced six issues this year. Each issue concentrated on an area of concern to Queen Anne students. In these issues one of six areas of concern was researched, analyzed, and editorialized by the SPECTRUM staff. The six areas were raising consciousness, improving the quality of academic life, clarifying student rights and responsibilities, improving the physical aspects of Q.A., invigorating extra-curricular activities, and enriching social life. The focus of the magazine shifted this year from a news magazine to a feature magazine dealing with school concerns. The co-editors-in-chief were Cynthia Cosmano and Terry Brennan. Mr. Robert Weiler served as ombudsman.

Dance Committee

The Dance Committee is part of the Student Council yet works almost entirely independently. The chairperson, Tricia Cartwright, made sure all dances ran smoothly. The first dance was an overwhelming success as Ignition started the school year. The second dance was with Tapwater Sparkle. The Christmas dance had Romance. Skyline performed at the Spring Dance and the Prom.

Prom Committee

This year Laura Crawford, Maggie Mitchell, Tricia Cartwright, and Susan Quarters were the chairpersons of the Prom Committee. Various fundraisers are being held this year including a sub sale and candy drive. The prom will be held in Glen Burnie at La Fontaine Bleu on June 9, 1983. They have hired an excellent band called Skyline.

The Activities Committee has done a very thorough job at Q.A. this year. They organized Spirit Week, the donut eating contest, the ice cream carving contest, and the Nostalgia Dress up Day. Blue-Gold Field Day which was organized by the committee was also a great success. During the Christmas season secret pals were arranged and a Christmas tree was furnished for the student body by this group. Indeed, this year the Activities Committee has done a lot to provide Q.A. with fun things to do.

Pep Club this year has been very active. The Pep Club was headed by Jean Stackpole. Being a Pep Club member is not a hard job. All it takes is a large voice and a big spirit. Not often will you find a "Pepper" who embarrasses easily. During the victorious Homecoming Game, the Homecoming King, Queen, and court circled the field in the Pep Club float.

Two wooden sticks, possibly part of a musical instrument or a tool, are shown. Each stick has the word "RESSIGNOL" written vertically on it in a stylized, hand-drawn font. The sticks are positioned vertically, with the one on the right slightly behind the one on the left.

VARSITY BASKETBALL VA

The Varsity basketball team had many distinguished players yet proved themselves as a team. The strong bench helped the team survive the loss of very active players. Juniors Todd Rodenquez and Tom McCallum led the team in scoring and became recognized within the community of basketball. Todd averaged 27.6 points per game as Tom led the PVAC with 18.3 rebounds per game. Even with the loss of seniors, Tim D'Zmura, Robbie Fettus and John Hohensee, the team should be very strong next year.

This year's girls' varsity basketball team began the season well. The players earned great respect and gained a group of loyal fans, which is a rare occurrence for girls' teams at Q.A. Proud of their impressive record, the team anticipated the winning season. Most of the girls have played on the basketball team in previous years and they have learned to work well together, combining excellent coordination with skill in the sport. Remarked Coach Krahling of her varsity players, "We have a good team; that's all there is to it."

JVBASKETBALLJVBAS

This year's Junior Varsity team was a young team made up of mostly seventh and eighth grade students. The team played well together this year as a working unit. One advantage was J.V. players Frank Kratovil and Todd King playing on the Varsity squad as well. The coaches were Terry Griggs and Mike McPherson. The team should return next year with the same competitive spirit.

The members of this year's Junior Varsity girls' basketball team show promise as future champions. This year's season was characterized by constant improvement. The players work well with each other, even though only two of the girls have played on the team in previous years. Under the patient instruction of Coach, Lynn Krahling, the girls made the season a worthy and memorable experience.

RS VARSITY CHEERLEA

This year the Varsity Cheerleaders not only cheered for winning teams, but also they themselves became winners in every aspect. As a competitive squad, the girls amazed even themselves as well as those who have watched them perform in the past years. In the Regional Competition at Maryland University, the squad became a National finalist, placing fourth and were invited to compete in the National Competition in Dallas, Texas. They took first place at the Capital Center Competition but they weren't finished yet. In February, they travelled to Dallas to represent the Washington, Maryland and Virginia area. The success of the squad this year is due mostly to their coach, Kathy Gemelle and their sponsor, Carol Kimble. It is also due though to the many hours of hard work and the unending dedication that it took to become a winning squad and to achieve the goals they worked for.

This year's Junior Varsity cheerleading squad's season was cut short. Although their time was brief their efforts were longstanding. In the Fall they participated in a competition at Maryland University and won a superior ribbon. This showed the spirit and enthusiasm that the squad represented. The girls are hoping that next year will prove how talented they really are.

An Exchange of Ideas

On January 4, 1983, Queen Anne was delighted to welcome sixteen year old Jannina Carito Torres, our Peruvian exchange student. Carito stayed with Gauri Nandedkar and her family until her departure on March 23rd. Carito met Gauri when Gauri spent last summer with her in Lima, Peru.

Carito has many hobbies which she loves to pursue. She enjoys collecting postcards, dancing, and playing volleyball and basketball. In Lima, Carito attends an all girl Roman Catholic school. Queen Anne was thrilled to have her as a part of our school community and only wished she could have stayed longer. We sincerely hope that Carito gained as much from her experience with us as we gained from our experience with her.

The best memory I have at Queen Anne is you and I sitting in the middle of the hockey field with no one around. I finally had found someone who understood me. We talked and we listened. We did not necessarily agree, but I knew you understood. Now we leave the hockey field, but I will always have you, if not now, then later! Goodbye Red and thanks.

om and Dad,
anks and I love you.

You have gotten me into so much trouble, or is it I have gotten you into so much trouble. Anyway, it has been fun and when I think back about Q.A. it will be you five that I will especially remember.

 easier because you lived; This is to have succeeded."

Ralph Waldo Emerson

I see a small child standing in a haze behind her is pure darkness; she begins to cry in endless defiance to create her own exit

I was the childhood dreamer, always reaching for something . . . an older brother's hand, a younger cousins respect, always striving for control

How often as children our hopes and dreams of the inexperienced future were never met

It is the elasticity of childhood innocence as Barbie dolls and pigtails were tossed aside, reality and Truth filled its place

If there is one to whom elasticity has been preserved to whom hopes and dreams can brighten every day, to whom a smile can be a product of a yellow rose bud, a boy can be leading a lost bear home, a laugh can be of the mercy of a firmly held hand, and Love in response to nothing at all

Then why did the child in the haze turn back for help in dismay . . . For Rainbows take all the pain away."

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road, where the race of men go by —
 The men who are good and the men who are bad, as

Thank you,

Looking back upon my high school years, there have been so many people to touch my life that I couldn't begin to name them all I would like to thank my best friends for the wonderful memories: Terry, Angela, Lisa, Stacy, Megan, Amelia, and Pam. Without you my life would be a little empty today

Love is patient and kind, it is not jealous or concerted or proud, Love is not ill-mannered or selfish or irritable, Love does not keep a record of wrongs; Love is not happy with evil, but is happy with truth. Love never gives up and its faith, hope and patience never fails. Love is eternal

SARAH B., CYNTHIA, MARY, MARK, TIM,
and DANNY,

It's hard to believe that we have to go our separate ways now. I will carry with me the best of memories, and it is because of these times that we have shared that I have grown to see the world through so many different eyes.
You all are truly unique, and I have learned more in these past four years from you than I could in any classes. I know that each of you will pursue and attain your dreams. I only hope that you carry with you the memories of our lunchroom talks and our fun times. It has been your friendships that have made this part of growing worth all the rest of the pains!

All my love and luck are with you always! I will never forget you!

Love,
Chris

Dear Mrs. Sansing,

Thanks for letting me learn for myself that "that's all there is to it." You've been a terrific teacher and I'm going to miss you, your challenges, and your accent!
Now, I'm gonna hafta act growed up without your help!

THANK-YOU!!!!
Love, Christine

Mrs. Colaresi for being a steadfast friend and confidante — you're super!

Bob Salducci and Stone Photography for exceptional cooperation

Mrs. Chrisner for a variety of help (i.e., prompt phone messages, accurate announcements, etc.).

Sharon and Susan for eight pages of ads at last minute of the last deadline, and you, too, Mr. Rollman,

Chris LaPlaca for typing (and modeling)

Molly Sasscer for ads

Mary Rea for consistent dependability

Maggie Mitchell and Linda Crawford for jobs well done;

Spectrum for photos.

Seniors who submitted their materials on time

Mr. Gorsk for the use of the darkroom

Tricia Cartwright for bailing me out over and over (You performed far above and beyond the call of duty)

Kayser and Andy, what can I say? Photographers, I love you!
Mom

Once again the credit lies somewhere other than where it is due. Thanks for the ideas, the support, and the moral decisions of principle. I couldn't have done it without you

As the storm from the generation of old eases, the wind scatters some of the wreckage of the ship, but the large ring wind blows forth, and the king of the sea, the god of the sea, the generation of spirit, the god and other men.
